

書名 A physician's self-paced guide to critical thinking

作者 Milos Jenicek

書碼 W61/ J51p/ 2006

登錄號 E0011055

內容摘要：

Today's medicine is rooted in modern logical and critical thinking domains. A physician's self-paced guide to critical thinking explains and describes the applications of philosophy, logic and critical thinking in particular, in medicine. By presenting an organized view of medical professionals' experiences and endeavors, this resource will help to determine the success in treating patients and handing health problems at the community level. Designed to be a teaching tool, its self-instruction format is helpful as a resource or in a classroom setting.